by Receit Discourse.

SALISBURY, N. C., May 11.—"God has revealed to me to-day that I have overthrown the kingdom of God," were the words written on a piece of paper by Mrs. Nina Patterson, a prominent Rowan woman, last night, as she lay dying on her bed with her throat cut from ear to ear by her own heads. Hier husband, Mr. John Patterson, a well-known farmer, residing none miles from Salisbury, an dfour children stood by her bedside as life ebbed away. Mrs. Patterson had been demented for soveral weeks, though in sphealid physical condition. While surrounded by the members of her family last night, she selzed a razor, and, walking into the yard, slashed her throat from left to right with the weapon. The deed was committed in plain view of her husband and children, who, with great effort, carried her to a bed, where she died a few minutes later. The cause of her mental weakness is said to have been religious enthusiasm, following a sermon preached in her hearing a week ago. She was a member of a prominent Rowan county family, and leaves three brothers, all of whom are well-known ministers—hearing a week ago.
